SCREAM 4 (2011)

The ending was wild but until then it was slow. Also, I really dislike when characters never seen before end getting really big roles in the movie so that was a bit annoying.

SCREAM 3 (2000)

Funny that it was supposed to be the last installment of the Scream movies. Compared to the other movies I wouldn't say the plot was as strong but there still was good gore scenes.

SCREAM 2 (1997)

First of all, I feel bad for anyone who went to watch this in the theaters when this came out. Geez, I would be scared. Classic gore and the identity of the masked killer kept me guessing.

SCREAM (2022)

The acting and plot was so good. I was hooked from the beginning to end. This movie was more the start of something new rather than extending what was already there so that kept things interesting.

SCREAM VI (2023)

I really loved this movie. I was tempted to put it as first but I couldn't do that to the original. This movie did really good paying respects to the other ones while still focusing on what was happening to them. For once it wasn't about Sydney Prescott.

SCREAM (1996)

The original film that started it all. The plot, the attention to detail, the sequencing, everything you could want from a horror movie; Scream has it.
